Optimizing Revenue Mix

Think of local institutions managing larger endowments.

How does their revenue mix differ?

What funding models and fundraising do they employ?

Can the vision your Foundation has be supported by fees or earned income alone?

How will you make up the gap between what you can charge and what you want to do in your community?

- More personal stewardship

Pro

Our work is important and worthy of support like any other charity in the community.

Even if donors support our Annual Fund, they may not eliminate support for grantee orgs.

Con

If we raise funds for our operating support, we are in direct competition with the charities we are supposed to support in our community.

Pro

Annual Funds provide a uniquely effective way to educate and engage donors. They are easier and more cost effective ways to engage donors (vs. donor advised funds)

Con

The R.O.I. of an Annual Fund is not worth it. We'd be better off spending time, resources on donor advised fundholder services and engagement.

Pro

Annual Funds are the best way to involve anyone in our community in giving. It is a way to engage donors at a smaller level who may be “test driving” the CF before establishing a fund or legacy gift.

Con

Annual Funds are a waste of time at an institution like ours. We are not made to serve small donors. Let's leave that the United Way or some other organization in our community.

Pro

Community Foundations are about encouraging philanthropy. The Annual Fund is another way to do this.

Con

Community Foundations are about raising permanent support, and endowed funds for our community. We should not be in the Annual Fund business.
